FLOOD DANGERS IS OVER IN JOHNSTOWN

Maryland, Virginia, Etc., Flood Situation Is Not So Acute Today

(International News Service)
Fears of another major flood disaster began to disappear today as reports from crucial flood points indicated a cessation in the rise of rivers, swollen by spring rains.

At Pittsburgh, scene of the disastrous St. Patrick's Day flood of last year, the river at the "Point," where the Allegheny and Monongahela meet to form the Ohio, reached a high of 35.1 feet, more than 10 feet above the official danger stage, and then began dropping steadily at the rate of three-tenths foot an hour.

Down At Johnstown
At Johnstown, the "flood city," the Stonycreek river continued to fall despite steady rain during the night.
At Wheeling, W. Va., fears of another flood disaster passed as the swirling Ohio river halted its rise after reaching a crest of 45.8 feet at 1 a. m. An hour later there was no increase at the next reading. The crest last January was 48.7.

In the Maryland, Virginia, District of Columbia area the situation was not so acute as before. Although all fears of rising waters had not yet passed, the historic Rappahannock continued to fall back within its banks.

Twenty were counted dead from the flood, four in Pennsylvania, five in Ontario, one in Ohio, two in West Virginia, and eight in Virginia.

TOURS, France, April 28.—Mrs. Wallis Simpson plans to go on a shopping trip to Paris soon after the arrival of the Duke of Windsor at the Chateau De Candé, where she has been staying since leaving the Riviera. International News Service learned today.

The Duke of Windsor is scheduled to arrive at the Chateau next week. Soon after, if possible, Mrs. Simpson wants to visit the Paris exposition, she told me privately.

"I am dying to see the exposition," she said. "I have heard so much about it I am sure it will be most beautiful, with those colored fountains and music."

Mrs. Simpson asked me many questions regarding how the exposition grounds look and how the fountains and cloud mirages work. I talked to her for half an hour in the baronial hall of the chateau at nearby Monts, where she and the Duke will be married inside of five weeks unless their present plans are changed.

President Is Enroute To Gulf Of Mexico For Fishing Cruise

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL
Enroute to New Orleans, April 28.—Leaving behind him a distinct series of warnings that the administration was opening a drive to crush monopoly and hold down the current trend of rising prices, President Roosevelt journeyed through the southern states today enroute to a ten-day fishing cruise in the Gulf of Mexico.

Back in Washington, presidential lieutenants in both branches of the government were busy putting into effect last-minute orders which will carry on the newest phase of Mr. Roosevelt's battle against the trusts and what he considers "undue" advances in stock market quotations.

Successive Moves
Before embarking on another of the periodic vacations he takes to keep himself in trim, the president had made five successive moves within a two-week period. They were:

1. His assertion that the prices of steel, copper, cement and other durable goods were soaring unduly.
2. The Department of Justice suit to dissolve the aluminum trust controlled by Andrew W. Mellon.
3. A definite notice to all of the 815,000 government employees that ventures into the stock market for purely speculative purposes would be apt to affect their future status.
4. A letter to Vice President

Third Member Of Trio Is Near Capture—Flood Traps Gang Members

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)
GREENSBURG, Pa., April 28.—One member of a bandit trio was dead today, a bullet in his head, another captured, and a third believed near arrest, following a gun battle with two state police on a lonely, flood-choked mountain highway near here.

Donald Shoup, 18, West Lebanon, Indiana county, died this morning in Mercy hospital, Altoona. Under arrest was his brother, Floyd, 24. The third member of the gang, which had preyed on stores in three neighboring counties, was Clark Campbell, 26, with police believed closing in on his mountain hideout to which he had fled.

Flood Traps Gang
A flooded mountain stream in Catherine township, Blair county, trapped the gang. Forced to stop there as they were returning to their mountain hideout, they ran into Corporal J. E. Wagner and Private Leo Miller of the Greensburg barracks, who had been parked there, waiting for them.

As the police attempted to approach and question them the young bandits opened fire. The police retaliated. The younger Shoup boy, toppled from the car with a bullet

Twelve Injured, Trolleys Crash At Philadelphia

Sixty Others Are Shaken Up As Subway-Surface Trolleys Collide

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—Twelve passengers were injured and more than 60 others were shaken up today when two eastbound subway-surface trolley cars collided at the mid-city Fifteenth and Market streets station of the subway.

The crash occurred, police reported, when the lights of the leading trolley went out, apparently because the trolley pole had slipped off the overhead wire. The car in the rear crashed into the other car.

Crowded With Workers
Both trolleys were crowded with workers, nearly all of whom were thrown from their seats. Those standing in the aisles were hurled into a heap, witnesses said.

Although none was seriously injured, 12 passengers were taken to a nearby hospital in taxicabs to receive treatment for cuts and bruises.

The injured, all residents of Philadelphia, included Jules Freedman, Physio-Therapist at St. Luke's and Children's hospital, this city.

Loyalists Seek To Break Siege Around Madrid

By THOMAS LOAYZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, April 28.—Lashed into desperation by two weeks of almost daily bombardment of Madrid and by loyalist reverses on the Bilbao front, militiamen stormed southward from the capital today in a new offensive against the half-siege of Madrid.

With big shells screaming once more into the heart of the city, troops captured blocks of houses in the Carabanchel vicinity four miles south of Madrid. Their offensive had a double purpose—to relieve pressure on the Basque front, and to reach and silence the batteries of rebel artillery on hill-top emplacements west of Madrid.

Increased pressure by loyalists at Las Navas, also on the Madrid front, is compelling the insurgents to commence evacuation, a Madrid communiqué said.

New Defenses.

While the rebels cautiously consolidated the positions they have gained in a rapid offensive, the loyalist Basques also took advantage of the time and threw up new defenses for secondary positions back of Elbar and Durango.

Shenango Falls As Rain Ceases

Danger Of Flood Passes With Cessation Of Rainfall Here Yesterday

Cessation of the heavy rains which have swept the district since Sunday prevented danger of a flood in the local district.

This morning, the Shenango river was at a stage of 14.2 feet having fallen half a foot since last night after reaching a crest of 14.7 feet which it held most of yesterday.

The Neshamock Creek is down several feet below its crest which was reached Monday evening.

Resident Engineer Joseph Stasny, at the Pymatuning Dam, stated that the reservoir had only risen a tenth of a foot during Monday night. The present level at the dam is still two feet from the top of the emergency flashboards, which were installed Monday to hold back water at the spillway in the event of continued rain.

Huge Damage Done By Flood In Ontario, Can.

LONDON HAS GREAT HOST OF HOMELESS

Three Other Ontario Cities Are In Path Of Flood Waters Of Thames

(International News Service)

LONDON, Ont., April 28.—The worst flood in the history of Ontario Province swept through London toward the cities of Thamesville, Wardsville and Chatham today after leaving five persons dead and property damage of $3,000,000 in this section.

New rains caused a rise in the Thames river at Ingersoll, above London, but waters here had receded late yesterday and it was believed the Thames here could hold the new flood waters without further property loss.

Four Feet In One Hour
Thamesville, Wardsville and Chatham had sufficient warning of the rampaging waters. At Chatham, the Thames river showed a rise of four feet in one hour early this morning but besides inundating lowlands, little damage was reported.

In London, between 6,000 and 10,000 persons were homeless because of the floods, caused by the recent heavy rains. Fog hung low over the city this morning, and watermen believed the downpours had ended.

The homeless were being cared for in churches, schools and public buildings, while police in powerboats guarded against looting. Eight looting alarms were received by police this morning, but Police Chief Harry Downs said no actual looting was discovered.

Ohio River At 45.8 Foot Stage

Hundreds Of Homes On Island Section Of City Are Temporarily Evacuated

BELIEVE WATER WILL RECEDE RAPIDLY

(International News Service) WHEELING, W. Va., April 28. Fear of another flood disaster here passed today as the rise of the swirling Ohio river was halted after reaching a crest of 45.8 feet at 1 a. m. for the first time since the flood began, there was no increase at the next reading, an hour later.

The crest in March, 1936, was 55.5 feet, and 48.7 last January.

Relief officers breathed a sigh of relief and the tidings spread through schools and armories where hundreds of refugees were gathered.

Island Inundated
Wheeling Island, mid-channel home of 10,000 persons, was completely inundated early today. Its residents, given ample warning, were cared for in two schools and an auditorium.

Transportation was paralyzed as the water covered railroad, street car tracks and highways. Officials said food, medical and water supplies were plentiful, however. Police life boats were operating in flood areas.

The flood already has taken two lives in this section and another tragedy was narrowly averted in South Wheeling when a house boat capsized shortly after Carl Bucey had removed his father, his wife and their two-year-old child from the boat.

Windows overlooking the Indiana river.

It contains a stone fireplace as tall as a man, with logs blazing on the hearth. Decorated with oak panels and an oak floor, the room is part of the original wing of the chateau, built in 1568.

Mrs. Simpson was dressed in a simple sports suit—blue, the color that becomes her so well—and wore gold earrings, flesh-colored stockings, and low-heeled blue shoes.

She appeared in the best of health, possibly little slimmer than when she was at Cannes. She displayed the restrained yet somehow girlish enthusiasm characteristic of her when talking of the Paris exposition.

She was exuberant about the sunny weather and said the spring rains had prevented her from playing much golf. While I was at the chateau, she had an animated discussion with Hermann L. Rogers, Riviera estate, regarding St. Martin, a 5th century bishop of Tours who was a soldier of fortune "with a religious twist."

Mrs. Simpson laughingly wanted to know whether it was true that he was the "Al Capone" of his day, but agreed that "Robin Hood" might be a better description of him.

She showed me Snooky, her Cairn Terrier, which replaced Slipper, her former pet that was killed by a viper.

She said she missed Slipper, "the poor little fellow."

Tours Estate
But Snooky obligingly performed when she told him to sit up, stand and walk. Then Rogers took me on a tour of the vast estate.

Proudly showing me the 18-hole golf course, he said:

"The ruins of a house for misbehaving monks is under the 17th green."

He said the owner of the chateau, Charles E. Bedaux, is planning to excavate the spot when he can obtain the services of a first-class archaeologist, but added:

"Personally, I prefer the green." Rogers laughingly discussed many recent rumors that Mrs. Simpson had left the chateau, and demanded:

"Why should Wallis leave? Everything is here."

He showed me a gurgling trout stream and remarked:

"Mr. Bedaux caught a four-pounder there."

He also showed me arrangements for hunting pheasant, bridge paths, tennis courts and the building where the billiard room and the estate's miniature motion picture theatre are situated.

Dear Pa New:

Monday morning with heavens cloud heavy that was pouring rain I heard the wild trumpeting of Canadian geese. The calls seemed so close that I thought the birds would drop down on me, but look as I would, due to the heavy rains and murky sky not one of the flock could I see that seemed so near me. It has been many years since I first heard wild geese shouting down from the sky and the calls Monday morning had the same sound and gave the same thrill as it did long ago triumphant music coming from wild voices in the sky.

Pa New:

I read an article in the Pa New column in Monday's paper which stated that trout fishing would be no good for three or four days at least. To disprove this I caught a brown trout in the Neshannock creek Tuesday evening near the brick plant. The fish was 13½ inches long and weighed 18 ounces. The creek was as high as I have ever seen it.

CARPENTER GETS REMARKABLE RESULTS BY TAKING VENDOR

New Castle Resident Is Astounded At Wonderful Relief From Constipation, Fiery, Upset Stomach, Gas And Pains.

"I can eat fried food or anything I want now," said Mr. Alex M. Houk, of 722 Oak St., New Castle, a Carpenter by trade and general all-around substantial citizen, in talking to the Vendor Man in New Castle Drug Co., who is daily meeting crowds of people and explaining all about this great medicine which is a combination of roots and herbs with valuable Alkalies, making it a real double-acting remedy.

"I have suffered for years from constipation and that seems to have undermined my health. I didn't have much of an appetite and what little I did eat would give me distress—indigestion, heartburn, shortness of breath, fiery, acid risings, sourness, nausea, and sometimes cramps. I got very nervous and lost a lot of sleep. Then, too, I had severe headaches at times."

"I read what people here at home were saying about Vendor helping them so quickly over these same troubles, so I made up my mind I'd give it a trial, and that sure was my lucky day! It gave me a big surprise for it is so mild and smooth, and yet so very effective. I have no troubles in eating a good meal now—just about anything that I want from afterward. I'm not nervous any more, and I sleep like a healthy child and when I get up in the morning I feel rested and full of pep and vigor. I've gained some good, solid healthy flesh. My elimination is natural and regular, and I feel so much better in every way. I can't say enough in praise of Vendor."

EMPLOYEES GUESTS AT FOWLER HOME

Mrs. Helen Fowler, 1223 West Washington street, entertained a number of her friends at her home last evening, at a delightful spaghetti supper event. Bridge contests and vocal music provided the entertaining features of the leisure hours, and the majority of the group, who participated, composed of fellow-employees of Axes Mark.

As the guests were ready to depart, they were thrilled with a "shutter stunt" — something new and entirely different in games, introduced by Bert Taylor.

Those assisting in serving, were Mrs. Lillian Hileman, Mrs. Jean Snyder, and Mrs. Wayne Moore.

BRIDE-ELECT GIVEN SURPRISE SHOWER

Honoring Miss Dorothy Williams, who will wed Melvin Taylor on Friday afternoon of this week, Mrs. David Taylor entertained a group of guests in her home Monday evening, at a lovely "honeymoon" shower.

The serving of lunch concluded festivities, the hostess having as her aide, Miss Bertha Taylor. A tiered wedding cake centered the table where the honored guest sat. Additional small tables accommodated the remaining guests.

The bride-elect is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Kelly of Norwood avenue. Mr. Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Taylor, Sr. of 717 Blaine street. Their marriage will be performed in the parsonage of the First Congregational church, with the Rev. Regis T. Williams, officiating.

MRS. EMMA LESLIE HONORED BY CHAPTER

The meeting of April 27 of Cathedral chapter, No. 440, Order of the Eastern Star, will long be remembered for the unusual character of last night's event, held in the Scottish Rite Cathedral. Beginning with a splendid tureen dinner, served in the West dining room for members and their families, the outstanding event was fittingly launched.

Following, members retired to the East lodge rooms for their regular chapter business, and for the main feature of the evening, the induction of the Junior Past Matron, Mrs. Emma Leslie, into the Friendship Circle of the Past Matrons of the chapter.

The ceremony, in a beautifully arranged setting at the altar, was an original, especially prepared for the occasion by one of the past matrons, Mrs. Lillian Templeton. With every past matron of the chapter in her place at the altar, the worthy patron, Frank Goodwin, escorted the worthy matron, Mrs. Sadie McGreary and the Junior past matron, Mrs. Emma Leslie, to the altar. Here, an impressive light service was used, combining the symbolic colors of the order.

The gift for the past matrons was presented by Mrs. Jean Henley, former junior past matron. The flowers of the chapter were presented by the worthy matron, Mrs. McGreary.

After the lovely solo, "Garden of Memories" contributed by Mrs. Edith Redman, another impressive feature took place, bringing to a close a most memorable event. Past worthy matrons taking part, included Mrs. Lillian Templeton, Miss Mildred Updegraff, Mrs. Edith DeArment, Mrs. Olive Hewitt, Mrs. Edna West and Mrs. Jean Henley. Mrs. Helen Hartman, Grove City, and daughter of Mrs. Leslie, was one of the guests of the evening.

Of particular interest to the chapter was the presence of Mrs. Helen Stone Ramsey, constituting deputy of the chapter eight years ago.

A short business period ensued. Plans were completed for a special Mothers-Daughters dinner party on May 10. The affair will be held in the spacious home of Mrs. James D. Crawford, corner of Wallace avenue and North Mercer street, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. The date of the next regular meeting however, falls on May 21, the hostess to be announced.

NON-PARTISAN ELECTION OF JUDGES

THERE is before the Pennsylvania State Senate at the present time, a bill which would return the election of judges to a non-partisan basis. The bill is presented by Senator C. Gilbert Wolfenden of Indiana county and deserves the support of every state senator and representative regardless of party affiliation.

The non-partisan plan obtained in the judiciary from 1913 to 1921. For some unexplainable reason it was returned to the partisan plan. As the matter stands at the present judicial candidates must run on a party ticket, although they can file on several parties if they so desire.

The administration of justice is too vital to be tossed into the political arena along with the election of constables, assessors or tax collectors. A judge serving on the bench must be non-partisan and impartial if he is to be honest and competent. The same rule should apply to his candidacy.

All too often outstanding men have been defeated in a party primary because the party bosses were able to control the primary election. At other times candidates on minority tickets have been defeated by a less competent man because of a party sweep.

The non-partisan plan appears to be the only logical plan for the judiciary. A man should be elected to the bench because he is learned in the law, is honest and qualified.

The Wolfenden bill should be passed and signed.

BLOOM OR BLIGHT?

Will Washington chop down its cherry trees?
This question is agitating the people of the Southland and points north. Residents of the national capital are particularly concerned, for, as everyone knows, each spring at the center of government brings a rich harvest of dollars from tourists eager to feast their eyes on the lavender loveliness of the trees in bloom around the rim of the Tidal Basin.

Now it is proposed that these trees be torn out and the Tidal Basin drained in preparation for the erection of a coldly classical shrine to Thomas Jefferson, Democracy's patron saint.

Practical minds are viewing with alarm the probable cost of such a project. Proponents of the plan estimate that a Jefferson memorial could be erected for $3,000,000. But certain cynical engineers, familiar with the inflationary tendencies of political aesthetes, think an expenditure close to $15,000,000 will be involved.

Perhaps, it was to be expected that nothing so individualistic as those perky cherry trees would be allowed to linger on in the face of rabid regimentation.

SENATOR BYRD POINTS THE WAY

Senator Byrd, who has been indefatigable in demanding governmental savings through merging and liquidating agencies established for the depression, is about to call for a showdown from his colleagues. It will take the form of a bill to consolidate the remaining functions of the Home Owner's Loan Corporation and the Federal Housing Administration.

These agencies now have a combined payroll of 20,000 persons and last year cost $47,000,000 to operate. Experts say that conversion of the two into one would effect an annual saving of $24,500,000 as well as increased efficiency. Then why not do it?

The obstacles to be overcome is the deference of congress toward the federal payroll brigade. Mr. Farley, whose authority in his own field will not be disputed, has been credited with the remark that each payroll is worth twenty votes. Naturally every government employee is a constituent of some congressman.

The present administration and the present congress are not exceptions in the matter of utilizing political patronage. But, as everybody knows, the government payroll is heavily swollen because of the retention of emergency agencies that have long outlived their usefulness.

According to impartial surveys cited by Mr. Byrd there are a score more agencies which could be eliminated or consolidated as profitably as the two which he has selected for immediate action. Administration leaders admit that there is no prospect of putting through the president's committee plan for reorganization at this session. That is just as well, since it contains many sweeping proposals for changes that might not be reforms and besides makes little provision for economy.

But this does not mean that a beginning should not be made toward reorganization at this session, with economy as the prime consideration. Increased efficiency should follow. If congress really desires to save the taxpayers millions of dollars, Senator Byrd has pointed the way.

Political and railway platforms are similar. They are useful only to get in on.

Roger Babson says that a nation is no better than the men who compose it. Sometimes it's even worse.

New Dealers are afraid these tax threats will induce people to feel that happy days won't be here long.

The under-dog is with us always. He may get the upper hand, but then his former boss is the under-dog.

Three World Fairs are scheduled for the next couple of years. This should mean a boom in the fan dance business.

Still, the wicked speculator couldn't get undeserved riches without a lot of innocent speculators to do the losing.

The greatest of blessings is a poor memory. We could lift his head if he couldn't forget the times when he played the fool.

These cultural olympics, organized internationally, should give the competing countries a fine opportunity to slur each other in high-brow terminology.

Courses in "pressure politics" are being offered by several colleges. As if we needed to train people in that particular field of partisan charity.

Madrid should be a great spot for this summer's tourists. It isn't every year that you can get a charming combination of bombs, poison gas and shrapnel thrown in free of charge.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

"BONING" IS NECESSARY

In my day at college, we talked of "boning," by which we meant hard mental work of memorizing certain facts and symbols. In nearly every academic subject in high school and college the student, in order to succeed, must commit to memory certain items. Incidental memory will not suffice.

Needless to say, of course, that it is very wasteful to memorize more words and sentences, except for literary purposes, which can easily be abbreviated or turned into one's own language. But even when a good student outlines or summarizes a section or chapter of a text, reference book, or lecture, he may want to make these notes or summaries, or the basic items in them, a part of his memory. This is particularly true in the exact sciences, or in any other subject with a technical vocabulary. It is even true with a foreign language. Whereas a few keen minds do master the vocabulary of a foreign language incidentally when taught by the conversation method, most have to do some "boning" to succeed. Besides the mastery of a foreign language includes ability to spell the words of that language. How can it be done without some "boning"?

Real Spelling Task
We sometimes forget that there is a real spelling task in the learning of a foreign language. A good speller of English has acquired a method to aid him in spelling the words of a foreign language. The reverse is also true. The other day a 14-year-old girl who was a very poor speller a few years ago, told me that spelling English words has become so much easier since she has made success at spelling her French vocabulary. The chief common element for spelling success in both languages is "boning." I have learned to "bone" her, she said.

If you ever took a course with a professor of education who constantly ignored "boning" in his lectures, or ridiculed it, and did not "bone" in that very course yourself, you probably didn't pass! In most of the modern theories of education there seems to be no place for "boning." I wish there were and that children in the elementary grades would learn to "bone."

Show me the man or woman who has excelled in the study of biology, chemistry, physics, or any other exact science; or in law, engineering or medicine, and I will show you a person who has learned to "bone."

Inasmuch as a great many school administrators and professors write me, I would like especially to have their reaction to this article; or from anybody else.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

UNCHANGING PRINCIPLES

These are good times. Humming factories, busy stores, people zestful and quick to smile, all attest that these are good times.

And yet like the persistently discordant note in a joyous symphony, linger the disquieting words the President spoke in his Inaugural Address.

"I see one-third of a nation ill-housed, ill-clad, ill-nourished." Unfortunately, the President was right about the "one-third." Even in 1929, the peak prosperity year, Brookings Institute figures showed one-third of our families with less than $1250 a year.

But to solve the problem of the ill-nourished and ill-clad, there need be no departure from the American way. What we need is an even more vigorous application of the formula that has helped us build the richest nation in the world, the economy of greater efficiency.

Raise the standard of living by lowering the cost of living, lowered cost making more of everything available to an ever-widening multitude of our people. That means encouraging use of technology and mass methods in production, and encouraging the cost-eliminating efficiency of modern quantity methods in retail distribution.

The end result of widened markets, more men employed in supplying those markets and earning wages with which to buy more things themselves. In short, it is the traditional American formula that can solve our greatest economic problem, underconsumption.

These are good times. But we have far to go to silence the echo of the words, "one-third of the nation ill-housed, ill-clad, ill-nourished." We have all we need to continue our climb toward the goal of abundance. Let us proceed under the formula that has proved its effectiveness.

Bible Thought For Today

Let the lying lips be put to silence; which speak grievous things proudly and contemptuously against the righteous.—Psalm 31:18.

After a wedding, it is essential that the maid of honor, matron of honor, best man, bridesmaids and groomsmen call upon the bride's mother within three weeks.

The past winter must have been a hard one on walls. We have noticed several fallen walls so far and even had one on our own place. The winters do damage no matter how mild they are.

A chap 81 years old was refused a divorce from his wife 71 years old in Chicago. The judge told him he was too old for a divorce and ordered him to go home and fix things up with his wife. That judge believes in war to the bitter end.

People who come up north from Florida in March see peach and other kinds of blossoms. Going through Southern Pennsylvania the latter part of April they can see the same kinds of blossoms. Later on around here the same kinds of blossoms can be seen again. It's all in the climate one lives in.

A man had twelve wives, but was married thirteen times. How? His first wife ran away from him and eloped with a cousin. He grieved awhile and then married again, and he kept on marrying and burying eleven wives until he was 84 years old. Then he married a lovely widow only to find out that he had married his first wife! She knew they had been married before, but he didn't know it!

A large number of people will do most anything to keep from thinking. Some will even go as far as to work.

One nice thing about those cigars wrapped in cellophane is that they can be smoked in the rain without doing damage to them. We have often wondered why so much good cellophane is being wasted on bum cigars.

Deep down in the ocean are fish that the mind of man hardly conceives of. Amid gardens of corals, sea anemones, sponges of greatly elongated size and gigantic stalked sea lilies and squirming, writhing wormlike creatures. Strange animals with naturally long legs and tentacles have much longer necks and tentacles the latter often many times the length of the body, stretching out through the water in place of eyes for many deep sea animals and fishes become sightless. The fin rays of blind fish are prolonged so as to take the place of eyes and form sensitive outposts. Other fish develop larger, more powerful eyes, sticking out from their heads like telescopes; others the eight-armed squids among them have eyes on the ends of long stalks.

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES
A little school girl offered the following composition on anatomy.

"Anatomy is the human body. It is divided into three separate parts, the head, the chest and the stomach. The head holds the skull and brain, if there is any, the chest holds the liver and the stomach holds the vowels, which are a, e, i, o, u, and sometimes w and y."

Only 20 of every 100 criminals are girls and women. Researchers say this is due to the lack of physical strength in women and they prove it by the figures that nearly all girl and women criminals are arrested for fraud or theft comparatively few for criminal acts calling for physical strength. Other students say that the difference is accounted for by the fact that the courts are more lenient with women than with men and so the figures are disproportionate in appearance only.

HADASSAH MEETS IN TEMPLE ISRAEL

Considerable interest and enthusiasm was evoked Tuesday evening, at a meeting of New Castle chapter Hadassah in Temple Israel, when Mrs. Eliah Kaplan displayed a picturesque barometer poster featuring a brick wall which recorded the progress of the chapter towards meeting the assigned goal for the hospital building fund.

Contributors present who had given to this fund were asked to inscribe their names on individual bricks of this attractive wall. These inscriptions will make a lasting memento of the active participation of Hadassah members and friends in the building of the medical center on Mt. Scopus, Jerusalem.

This autographed poster will be shown at the silver jubilee convention to be held in New York City, October 26-31, when it will become part of the general exhibit.

Since the American-Jewish Physicians committee is a partner in this big enterprise, a physician was asked to address the assembly last night. Dr. E. F. Henderson, local surgeon, introduced by Mrs. Kaplan as a builder in this project, spoke in an informative fashion on the subject of "Cancer," revealing its types, symptoms, probable causes and possible cures. Dr. Henderson held the rapt attention of his audience throughout his enlightening talk.

Prior to the program, a business session was held at which, Mrs. L. P. Kohn, who presided, spoke of forthcoming Hadassah delegates to the world Zionist congress. This will take place in Basel, Switzerland, during the month of August. These elections will be held simultaneously all over this country on June 20.

Among outstanding reports was an announcement by Mrs. J. Silverman of the program to be given by the children of members at the Infant Welfare party to be held during the third week of May.

At the business session in May, written reports will be submitted by all officers and chairmen, and an election of new officers will feature.

Milk Control Bill May Be Passed Today

Administration Seeks To Jam Measure Through Legislature At Once

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, April 28.—Sending an insurgent rural bloc scurrying for quarter, the Earle administration today was expected to jam finally its original milk control bill through the 132nd legislature.
If present Democratic parliamentary strategy strikes no snags—and there appeared to be only one remote possibility—the legislature will have time to spare in substituting the administration's milk control measure for the present act which expires Friday.
Gov. George H. Earle's "big stick" was wielded as never before during this legislative session in denuding the Arnold bill of a group of drastic amendments inserted by the insurgents. Further, it was virtually assured that sufficient votes have been lined up to send the bill to the governor's desk with only several protesting speeches, and, perhaps, parliamentary maneuvers to temporarily obstruct its speedy action.
It is even considered possible that a new milk control commission will be appointed today to administer the to-be-enacted law, introduced by Rep. J. Harold Arnold, D., Fayette. Edward W. Prendergast, secretary to Governor Earle, said the chief executive would, in all probability, send the names of his appointees to the senate for confirmation late today.
Two of the present members were believed assured of their berths. They are Howard Elsam, chairman, and John M. Snyder. But whether or not Governor Earle would continue Dr. Howard C. Reynolds as the third member was a matter of conjecture.

OHIO RIVER AT STEUBENVILLE IS RECEDING TODAY
(International News Service)
STEUBENVILLE, O., April 28.—gradually the Ohio river flood receded here today after reaching a crest of 43.7 feet, almost nine feet above flood stage, but 18 inches short of the January high.

At 9 a. m., the river level had fallen to 42.1 feet and continued downward at the rate of three-tenths foot hourly.

Hundreds of families driven from their homes in small Jefferson county villages, waited impatiently for the third flood in 14 months to recede so they could begin the customary "mop-up."

This situation resulted from President Vargas's action in dismissing General Dachunha as executor of measures relating to the "state of war" which has been maintained since the communist rebellion of last year.

Labor Mediation Bill Near Passage

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, April 28.—While the Democratic juggernaut in the house prepared to pass finally the administration's labor mediation bill, Gov. George H. Earle today awaited legal ruling on constitutionality of the McGinnis labor relations measure.
Traveling a rough, uncertain legislative trail to final enactment, the "Little Wagner Act" was being held over pending word from Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, while its companion measure was ready for assignment to the governor's desk for signature.

Following a hastily summoned conference with administration chiefs and labor leaders in the executive mansion yesterday, the governor requested an opinion from the justice department to "make sure" the bill introduced by Sen. Bernard McGinnis, D., Allegheny, "does not go beyond the provisions of the Wagner Labor Relations act."

Leading Spring Festival Week At Pitt University

The old lines about spring and a young man's fancy have to be changed. At least this is true at the University of Pittsburgh. All this week students have been enjoying the many events of the traditional Spring Festival week: dances, carnivals, parades, sports. And these four co-ed leaders have been in charge. Beulah Simon is chairman of the co-ed float parade, which will use newspaper comic strip characters as a theme; Kathryn Hardy is co-chairman of the entire week's program; Louise Baughman is chairman of the co-ed sports—roller skating and bicycle races; and Madalene Batty is chairman of the "circus swing" teas dance.

A tart bawling contest in which the Queen of Hearts, played by Melva Hamill, proves herself a failure in making tarts for the King of Hearts, Arthur Snyder. Omar Duff, Jack Lusk and Robert Gilkey also have leads in this play, and will add a lot of humor to the program.

Twins In Country

LABOR TO TEST RIGHTS IN HARLAN

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.
WASHINGTON, April 27.—These are the only two National Press club twins in the United States.
Robert B. Armstrong is their grandfather. "Old Bob" has been a Washington correspondent since the memory of present day scribes runneth not to the contrary—a Press club member and a Gridiron club member and everything else.
"Young Bob," the twins' proud father, is a newspaperman, too.
Mrs. "Bob," Jr., was a newspaper woman. One of her assignments was to attend Mrs. Roosevelt's White House conferences with ladies of the press.
The twins, being twain, have two godmothers:
Mrs. Roosevelt and the former Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, now married into the Danish nobility.
They are not yet official members of the National Press club, being only a few days old. Indeed, Ruth Eleanor never can be a full-fledged member, unless the rules are changed, for the club doesn't admit those of the gentler sex. "Bob" III, however (Furman, after his mother, is his middle name), already is on the waiting list.

As soon as they are a little older a club reception is to be held in their honor, as the only pair of its twins in captivity.

of the gentler sex. "Bob" III, however (Furman, after his mother, is his middle name), already is on the waiting list.
As soon as they are a little older a club reception is to be held in their honor, as the only pair of its twins in captivity.

NOW—AS TO HARLAN

Probably "Bob" III is conveying a hint as to prospects in the Harlan county (Kentucky) coal country, as revealed by recent disclosures before Senator La Follette's committee on charges of civil liberty violations throughout the United States—and in Harlan county most particularly.

On the strength of these revelations are going into Harlan in full force immediately.

They have tried it before, but a union organizer in Harlan has had an extra-hazardous job thus far. Being "run out" of the county was about the mildest treatment he had to expect.

If anything worse than that happened to him, what protection had he to count on? Only local justice (alleged).

A fat chance a "foreigner" (as they call us in Harlan) has had, who spoke for his rights before a Harlan county sheriff or in a Harlan county court!

U. S. OR HARLAN?

Now under the Wagner law, recently upheld by the federal supreme court, Uncle Sam's regulation prevails.

A "foreigner" can't be "bumped off" regardless of anything but local consequences.

It may not be strict states' rights, but is Harlan county to define states' rights for the entire country?

WILL THEY WONDER?

The suggestion is made that the treasury is planning to print an awful lot of new money—money that doesn't mean anything substantial, but just PAPER MONEY.

For this purpose the treasury needs about 1,016 tons of paper. Isn't this quite a lot of purely PAPER money?

Nothing's back of it. When the Armstrong twins grow up, won't they wonder?

Let's watch what the Armstrong twins see in their era.

Prediction of a bumper apple crop in the Butler district this year is made by Farm Agent R. H. McDougall of that county. In discussing crop prospects in general he said: "There is a good set of fruit buds. But the wheat is quite spotted, due to winter damage and many of the new clover fields are being plowed under because of the dry weather last summer and hard winter for clover in general. A few of 'early birds' have their oats in, but most of the seed is still in the granaries."

C. E. Germane, University of Missouri education instructor, told delegates to the Midwest Education Conference at St. Louis that "college professors are dead from the heart up." "We belong to the unburied dead," he said. "We turn out mechanical, chemical and legal engineers instead of human engineers. We become pedantic and cease to be human minded."

The Pennsylvania state dental society's ninth district annual session, which includes all county groups in northwestern Pennsylvania, will be conducted at Cambridge Springs June 10 and 11.

John Beattie of Fort Wayne, Ind., marveled today at the adaptability of the Siamese twins born to his blue moon tropical fish. They were joined at the stomach in such a way that when one faced east the other faced west. Instead of swimming in circles, Beattie said, "One goes forward and the other reverses."

Clarion county is interested in the will of the late Hannah Fox, one of the last of the Fox clan which struck it rich in early days of the oil hysteria, settled at Foxburg and established for the tiny community a reputation as one of the show places of Western Pennsylvania. Numerous benevolences come to light with the filing of an exemplification of the will. Miss Fox possessed personal property to the value of more than $100,000 and real estate (less encumbrances) to the value of more than $50,000 including properties in Clarion, Armstrong and Philadelphia counties.

Mrs. John W. Carson, for 51 years a resident of Beaver Falls, widow of J. W. Carson, founder and publisher of the Beaver Falls Review, died Sunday following a two-months illness.

Young men who would be popular with co-eds at Macalester College at St. Paul must not "hand out a line." If they observe that—rule No. 1 in a code of advice for would-be escorts—their stock would go up 100 per cent. The young women also stipulate that their escorts know good manners and use them, and that they must not "grease" their hair.

A suggestion has been made in the matter of a new bridge over the Slippery Rock Creek to replace the Harris bridge which might be of value. For what it is worth, here it is.

At Rose Point when the new bridge was erected, the old steel girder bridge was taken down and the pieces laid up on the bank along the highway. This old bridge was a good one but it was not wide enough to accommodate heavy traffic which was the reason for the removal.

It is suggested that the county may be able to get the girders from the state and put them across the

Gamblers Are Drained By Game

Nights Of Gambling Take Emotions From New York Professionals

NEW YORK HAS ODD EATING HOURS

By O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 28—No class of New Yorkers seem so shocked of emotions as the professional gamblers when they gather around 4 a. m. for their coffee in the Broadway all-night cafes. As solemn as papooses they sip their coffee in tight lipped silence. Never a joke nor a laugh.

All have acquired that pallor that so often goes with steady nerves—like Arnold Rothstein and Nick the Greek And, in contrast to the general notion the majority are sedate dresses, generally dark blue suits, drab ties and little jewelry.

They are the most regular of patrons and the biggest tipsters. The reason is that their hands are most in evidence. And it is almost invariable that they have the long and sensitive fingers of the true artist.

They like perfumes and barber scents. Living hard and dangerously, their faces are honed to a Sphinx-like immobility. Now and then their ladies, brightly rouged and extravagantly over-dressed, drop in at the morning interlude. If it has been a lucky night they share in the come-easy go-easy bounty.

The most famous haunt of Broadway in the early morning is Lindy's. It is where Damon Runyon sat a hundred and one nights gathering material for his Mindy stories in the magazines. Lindy's has a shifting clientele as colorful as the kaleidoscope. At noon there come the radio performers and script writers.

At 4 o'clock the odd assortment that breakfasts then and for dinner a variety of song writers, actors, gag men, cabaret folk and screen celebrities. Then the early a. m. crowd—the smartly dressed Tenderloin termites who live by their wits.

Broadway also has three dinner hours. The 6:30 crowd that must dine early to be ready for the theatre curtain. Then the 7:30 o'clock movie and theatre goers and at 8:30 those who want to dine leisurely, sit over their coffee and cigars and wait for the night clubs to open. A 6 o'clock rain is the most disastrous thing that can happen to the restaurant world. Drenching away, a fortune that can never be regained. That is why head waiters so often come to the door just before the dinner hours to scan the skies.

Idiosyncrasy: One of the biggest industrialists confessed at a private dinner he loses interest in executives who have a conference with him. Depart and suddenly return to mention something they have forgotten. He will get rid of them more quickly for that than for some blunder.

Bow wow bon bons—candy for dogs—decorates the windows of fruit and delicatessen shops as well as the windows of the fashionable dog-salons. Two department stores now have departments devoted exclusively to canine outfitting and toys for the pooch. And on upper Park avenue there is a dog tonsor who not only clips and plucks kiyoodles but gives them perfumed baths at $3 per plunge.

Two toned silk pajamas are now the billiards in the swank haberdasheries. Flaming red pantaloons with snow white jackets or green jackets with purple pantaloons. The idea was popularized in Hollywood where pajama wearing has become as style conscious as evening dress. I not pajamas as high as $175 a pair. Among the extravagant pajamists a haberdasher tells me are Noel Coward, Adolphe Menjou, Francony, Billy Leeds, William Goadby Lowe, Lucius Beebe and of course, the most valued customer of all, Marlene Dietrich. Any new star arising in the Hollywood heavens becomes an immediate target for the exclusive pajama makers, for as a rule they go in for the garments in a big and expensive way.

Since the passing of Tammany Young and the apparent retirement of One Eyed Connelly, the big sporting events, as well as the theatres, have no outstanding professional gate crashers these days. Another halt for the idea is the novelty wore off and no longer do newspapers give them publicity. The fact is, gate crashing requires little ingenuity. Anyone who does not mind the humiliation of being found out can eventually crash the gate. It is done nightly at movies, theatres and prize fights by hundreds all over the land.

From an Arkansas paper: "Reading McIntyre's gadding, one would scarcely know where to look for him in the big town."

I generally pop in at the hotel some time during the day. (Copyright 1937, McNaught Syndicate Inc.)

Local Library Uses Loan Services Of State Institution

Pennsylvania State Library Loans Many Books To Local Public Library

A service is available at the free public library which is known to but a few of the library members. This service is rendered by the state library at Harrisburg, to aid libraries about the state to secure books which are not available in their vicinity.

According to Miss Alice Sterling, local librarian, many persons take advantage of this service each month, securing books on culture, science, and others, of higher learning which they do not have on the shelves of the local institution.

These books are loaned by the state library for the mere cost of postage both ways to and from the Harrisburg building. The Post Office department has a special rate for sending books between libraries which make it advisable to take advantage of the service.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

of the American people. The pageant showed an immigrant and Father Time, looking down through the history of this country. The episodes included the Pilgrims and Indians, signing of the Declaration of Independence, freeing the slaves, and the spirit of education.

Rev. Richard Harvey Gives Last Message Of Youth Conference Last Night

Addressing a record crowd, Rev. Richard H. Harvey of Erie, speaking on the subject of "What Is Truth and How Shall I Find It?" brought to a close a very successful two-night conference in the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. Harvey chose for a text last evening John 18:33-38, issuing forth a challenge to the young people of this day to go the way of Christ. He touched on the different movements of this day which are tending to turn young people away from God.

The Tanner trio of the Savannah M. E. sang "Hiding in Thee" and Misses Margaret Lewis and Marian McKenzie of the Primitive Methodist church sang "Oh! I've Found Him". During the invitation Harry Sloan sang "Have Thine Own Way Lord" to which several responded to give their lives over to the service of Christ.

This conference was sponsored by the Union Young People's Prayer society of this city. This group meets each week on Monday evening in the interest of a revival. Miss Mabel Lewis is the president of the society.

Jay Franklin says those who would have the President speak for the protection of property are "dim-wit Tories." But can fifty million dim-wits be wrong?

TIONESTA DAM FLOOD CONTROL PLANS READY

Funds Hold Up Flood Control

Ready To Begin Actual Flood Control Work As Soon As Funds Are Set Up

DAM PROJECTS ARE OUTLINED

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, April 28.—Ready to begin actual construction work as soon as federal and state governments appropriate the necessary funds, United States army engineers today announced that designs for the flood control dam on Tionesta creek, near Tionesta, have been completed and that designs for the Crooked creek project would be completed within another week.

"We're ready to start just as soon as congress and the state gives us the money," declared Lieut. Col. W. E. R. Covell, district engineer in charge of the flood control projects. He said his engineers would begin immediate designing of the Red Bank and Loyalhanna projects with the expectation they would be completed within the next few months. The above named projects are four of the series of ten dams proposed for the Allegheny and Monongahela valleys, which, if constructed, would ultimately protect Pittsburgh from future destruction by high water.

One high official charged that if the dams had been in operation, Pittsburgh would have been spared the 35.1 foot crest experienced this week.

"Had the entire system been in operation," he told International News Service, "the stage here would not have passed 27 feet. Approximately eight feet would have been taken off the crest."

Dams Proposed

The entire series of dams included the following proposed sites: Tionesta, Crooked creek, Red Bank, Loyalhanna, French creek, Upper Allegheny, Mahoning, Conemaugh, West Fork and Tygart. The last mentioned site, the Tygart dam, located near Grafton, W. Va., has been practically completed with construction in its final phases.

The engineers have been working on the projects for months, preparing plans and designs, testing soil bases, and studying the myriads of other details that must be checked before the final O. K. for construction is given.

But, as Col. Covell explained, "we'll probably have designs completed for two more dams before we finally get the money to start work." He indicated, though, that he expected some definite action by July 1.

Hoot Gibson Realizes Old Ambition In Circus Tour

No institution in American history has held the popular and romantic appeal that the circus enjoys.

No red blooded American boy has ever sat tense and spellbound under the big white tent without being consumed with a burning desire to "travel with a circus". To spend each day surrounded by the glamour and the excitement of the sawdust trail is, to the average American youth, the acme of all things.

When Hoot Gibson, famous Western screen star, saw his first circus as a boy, he was instilled with the ambition to "join a circus". Since then, fate has led him over many various roads, but that child ambition was never stilled.

Today, Hoot Gibson is realizing that ambition after the lapse of many years. After completing his latest series of Western thrillers, Hoot rejected offers of new contracts from Hollywood producers and "joined a circus".

And now he is having the time of his life. As the stellar attraction of Wallace Brothers Big Three Ring Circus, he will be seen, in person, in New Castle, on Saturday, May 1.

Would Build Flood Wall

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, April 28.—The senate on Tuesday approved a joint resolution calling for appointment of a joint committee to investigate the feasibility of constructing a flood wall around Pittsburgh's "Golden Triangle". The resolution was introduced and approved in the house.

ACCIDENT VICTIM LEAVES HOSPITAL

Lyle Shaffer, of Harding avenue, who suffered a fractured skull and other injuries two weeks ago, when struck by an automobile while riding his bicycle at the corner of East and North streets, has recovered sufficiently to be removed to his home from the Jameson Memorial hospital, where he has been undergoing treatment.

Brotzman Sees His First Flood In Many Years

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, April 28.—W. S. Brotzman, Uncle Sam's weather observer here, Tuesday saw what a flood really looked like for the first time in years.

Brotzman spends most of his time poring over his maps and reports in his office.

Tuesday he went down to the "point" to inspect the gauges and saw his first real flood.

Bessemer High To Stage Class Play

Players of the senior class, Bessemer high school will present their annual spring production on Thursday night, April 29, at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium. For this year's vehicle they have chosen "Everybody's Crazy," a comedy. The play has been coached by Miss Elizabeth Geiger of the faculty, and rehearsals indicate a good performance Thursday night.

Picnic Ends School In Scott Township

Another school term at Rocky Point in Scott township was concluded Friday at noon in the school house, as 100 persons were served a picnic dinner.

During the afternoon a very interesting program was carried out by the pupils, under the direction of their teacher, Jesse E. Carr.

The following pupils were honored for not missing a day for the school year: Olive Houk, Marjorie Strawhecker and Arthur Thompson. Attendance seals were given to this group by their teacher.

Familiar State College Figure Taken By Death

(International News Service) STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 28.—Well known to Penn State athletes of a score of years ago, Frank B. Scott, 62, died Tuesday from a heart ailment. Scott was in charge of the "old track house", home of Penn State's athletes during the days of athletic scholarship at the Nittany Lion institution for 18 years.

Highway Safety Commission Bill Passed By Senate

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, April 28.—By a vote of 39 to 1, the senate Tuesday approved and sent to the house the Mallery bill creating a highway safety commission as an independent department in the commonwealth.

The measure, introduced by Sen. Charles R. Mallery, R. Blair, is backed by organized motorists, and was seen as a possible frontal attack on the administration's proposal to merge the state police and highway patrol.

Sen. Glenn R. Law, D. Mercer, alone opposed the bill. The commission would consist of the secretaries of revenue, highways, labor and industry, mines, chairman of the public utility commission and superintendents of state police, public instruction and highway patrol. The governor would appoint a director of public safety.

Sen. Law said the bill would duplicate present work in the revenue department.

Stamp Notes

The exhibition of stamps belonging to the Post Office department is now being moved into new and enlarged quarters. In the new show hall, the many stamps and frames already accumulated can be shown to better advantage, and will allow for expansion of the collection.

Collectors are expecting daily an announcement of issuance date for the 5-cent Army-Navy stamps. Up until today no word has yet been released by Postmaster General James A. Farley, in regard to this last denomination in the Army-Navy series.

Collectors will no longer be able to secure local precancels for their collections, from mail in their own vicinity. An order to postmasters from the Post Office department requires that all precanceled stamps on parcels marked for local delivery be defaced. This move was taken to prevent the possible re-use of the stamps, at a saving to the concern. Close tab on the permit holders is also being made to ascertain just where the stamps are being used.

The postal department at Ottawa has just announced a number of special Coronation cancelling dies bearing a design of the British flag and an inscription relating to the Coronation of King George VI, with bi-lingual equivalent where necessary. Postmasters have been given instructions to give special attention to requests for these cancellations. They will remain in use throughout the week of May 10, at all of the important cities of Canada.

A bill is now before congress, authorizing the postmaster general to appoint private concerns or individual contractors for carrying airmail letters from cities without the service, to the established airmail routes. This service if adopted would be established in New Castle, and would be a great aid to persons taking advantage of the airmail service.

Expect Crowd At WPA Play Thursday
Wealth Of Local Ability In Cast Indicates Hit In "The Phantom"

With rehearsals closing tonight for "The Phantom," WPA mystery play to be presented in the senior high school auditorium on Thursday night, April 29, the indications point to a successful show and a crowded house. There is no admission, neither will there be any collections.

The play has a wealth of local talent in the cast and it should be good. Under the direction of James Sotus, the rehearsals have progressed in the past few weeks and the cast is ready for the opening, curtain Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Charter Draped At North Beaver Grange
The regular monthly meeting of the North Beaver Grange was held Friday evening in the Grange hall. Following the minutes, the grange charter was draped in memory of B. J. Benson. Those taking part in this impressive ceremony included: Robert Henderson, Birda Bright, Mrs. Dorothy Anderson, Mrs. Wright Sere, David F. Kyle, with a closing by the entire grange.

Business was transacted, followed by a lecture hour conducted by William Dice. A talk on bees was given by Robert Henderson. Samples of bee hives, equipment, honey, comb and honey receipts, were given by Mr. Henderson.

A monologue by Mrs. Everett, "In a Shoe Store," proved very entertainment. Plans were made for a play, "Phantom Belle," to be presented in the hall on Tuesday evening. Plans were also made for Home Economics night, to be held in the near future. Next regular meeting is scheduled for Monday evening, May 10.

Expect 25,000 'Yanks' To See Coronation

By CHARLES A. SMITH

International News Service Staff

Copyright, 1937, by International News Service

LONDON, April 28.—The Yanks are coming.

Twenty-five thousand of them, if the English tourist agencies are to be believed.

This time it isn't a war that's the attraction. The 1937 "over there" magnet is King George VI's coronation, scheduled for May 12 in historic Westminster Abbey.

Not since the palmy days of pre-1929 will London's crooked streets, its luxury hotels, smart restaurants, theaters, cabarets and dance shows have resounded to American talk as they will during the week of coronation fiesta.

And all those London hostilities and pleasure places whose annual dividends depend to a large extent on the dollars passed out by Uncle Sam's children are very happy about it.

For the statisticians compute that each American visitor will spend an average of $375 while he or she is in London, or a gross of nearly ten million dollars.

If there is one thing certain about the May 12 junket, it is that it is not a poor man's holiday.

The wealthy American, able to scatter checks wherever he goes, will get all the service in the world, with the possible exception of that unattainable thing—a seat in Westminster Abbey to view the crowning.

Prices Rocketing.

The not-so-wealthy American pilgrim will find it a different proposition in a town where prices are rocketing every week, where most everyone believes the possession of an American accent means unlimited wealth, and where undercover speculators and small-time racketeers are planning to get a year's pickings out of the week of roistering.

The rich American may get a hotel suite with bath by flourishing a blank check and pulling all the wires possible. His poorer relation, over with the family for a look at London town, will be lucky to get into a rooming-house, sharing a bath with perhaps half a dozen others.

All the hotels, particularly those of the modern luxury class usually patronized by American tourists in London, and including even those smaller hostilities outside the central London area, announce they will be jammed to the roof for coronation week.

At least one of the 25,000 American invaders has had the vision to recognize this fact.

C. A. Munn, millionaire Philadelphia sportsman, announced he is shipping over a mobile caravan home in which he and Mrs. Munn plan to live, sleep, eat, entertain and travel while they are here for the coronation, avoiding all hotel and travel speculators, including a small cocktail bar.

Perhaps they will think the trouble and expense worth while to be able to go home and say they were in London when King George VI was crowned. Or perhaps they will sail for America with the feeling the coronation was staged especially to extract their hard-won dollars from them.

It will depend on themselves—and the size of their bankroll.

Seek Election For Electrical Workers

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 28.—The United Electric and Radio Workers of America, a CIO union, today petitioned the National Labor Relations Board for an election to determine the bargaining agency for 47,000 employees of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

The election will affect plants at East Pittsburgh, Turtle Creek, Philadelphia, Lester, Essington, all in Pennsylvania, and Springfield, Mass., and Mansfield, O.

The CIO union stole a march on its rival, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, an AF of L union, which is attempting to organize Westinghouse workers along CIO lines.

Twins are everywhere in Africa, and especially among the Bantus, regarded with horror. A missionary there, fighting this custom, rescued two such infants and their mother but, carrying them to her own home, dared not use the path home for it would have become so polluted by the passage of the twins and mother that no one would have ever passed over it again. So she stood waiting while a new path was being cut to enable her just to get through to her own grounds.

American League Castoff
Allows Pirates Six Hits,
Blanton Chased

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 28.—Although nothing goes right on happening every day in major league baseball this year, there were several developments that seemed significant this morning. The St. Louis Cardinals had moved into first place in the National League; the Yankees still were in first place in the American—and four clubs were bidding for Charley Ruffing. The latter is the strange and distant recluse from out Chicago way, who knows what he wants from the Yankees—and apparently isn't going to get it.

Not from the Yankees, anyhow. But one of the four bids, I understand, is from the Boston Red Sox and their Mr. Tom Yawkey is not a man to bicker with a 20-game pitcher. In fact, he won't even debate with such a man. Ruffing wants $16,000 and he can get it in Boston, provided Boston can get him. Whether Boston does is somewhat doubtful.

Cards Top Pirates
So, according to the looks of things, is the rest of this comical season. It has gone on for ten days now and about all that's happened is that Schoolboy Rowe went to a Detroit hospital yesterday for sinus treatments and young Bobby Doerr, of the Red Sox, probably is emerging from a Boston hospital today after getting hit on the head by a pitched ball.

At that, I'd say that the shock of this probably was less than the six-hitter Bob Weiland pitched for the Cards over the Pirates yesterday to win by 3 to 1, and take first place from the latter. The idea here is that Weiland is a left-hander and the Cards haven't had a good one since the heyday of Bill Hallahan; moreover, everybody has been worrying about their pitching, whereas they're getting plenty all the way through from Ditherington Dean's ten inning shutout in the opener.

Weiland is just up from the International League, after being down various times from various American League clubs—and when a gent like that begins winning for the Cards, the latter soon will have to start worrying about something to worry about.

At the British Fur Breeders Association exhibition in London, Michael Stevens won the championship trophy with a mink.

Max Stein Is Tenpin 'King'

Illinois Bowler Sets New
All-Time Record Of
2070 In New York

By GLEN R. BIRCHARD
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 28.—From a 1972 all-events mark in 1936 to 2070 and a new all-time record is quite some leap but it has been made here in the American Bowling Congress tournament and Max Stein of Belleville, Ill., today is the proud holder of the honor.

Competing in his second congress classic he laid up a 653 series in the team event, 707 in the doubles and 705 in the singles to upset the 2060 of Gilbert Zunker of Milwaukee, Wis., who had established his record in the 1933 tournament at Columbus, O.

Stein's exceptional total pushed the popular veteran Walter Ward of Cleveland, into second place in the all-events, Ward having risen to the leadership April 18 through a total of 2039. The Cleveland lad looked good for the title until Stein completed his two-man event and went into his singles working on a 1365.

Hits New Mark
The Belleville pinster posted a 237 to open his individual drive and came back with a 253. Nothing but a complete loss of direction could hold him back from first place and he went that one better by smashing out a 210 to apparently sew up the all-events title.

Stein completed each of his singles games by striking out and did the same thing twice in his doubles. In the latter he paired with Walter Hartman for a 1307 and a fourth place tie with Fred Root and Jim Miola, of Cleveland. His 705 in the singles knocked him with John Gumbosh, of Akron, for ninth place.

But two teams showed totals of appreciable proportions last night, these being Daniel Ruder Corporation of Irvington, N. J. with 2913 and Esposito Association of Newark, N. J. with 2874.

A 1215 by Leon Decker and George Hanley, of Binghamton, N. Y., and the 676 by Charles Walters, of Binghamton, were best two-men and doubles marks aside from the new leaders.

With His Fists

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, April 28.—The sports world hailed a new "Wild Bull of the Pampas" here today after Alberto Santiago Lovell, heavyweight champion of the Argentine, battered Maxie Rosenbloom around the ring for 10 rounds and left him dazed, bleeding and defeated.

Rosenbloom was so badly battered that the referee examined him in the ninth round with a view toward ending the fight. But the veteran waved him aside and continued gamely with the losing battle.

The giant South American Negro, who started the fight world a month ago when he defeated Andre Langlet, French champion, carried the fight all the way.

In the opening rounds he out-Rosenbloomed Rosenbloom, ducking and weaving in a more agile fashion than the famous ducker and weaver himself.

In the last half of the fight Lovell opened up, landing punch after punch.

Lovell weighed 194½ to Rosenbloom's 182.

The Cities Service Bombers basketball team, won the colored city-county championship this year, according to Coach Walter Smith. The Bombers won 29 games and lost but four for a very enviable record.

Harrison Hammock was the high scorer on the team with a total of 93 points. He is a new comer to New Castle from Ohio. The Bombers were never beaten by more than an eight-point margin in any game this year. The boys will be back next year with an even better team according to Coach Smith. The team was sponsored by Marquis-Hinrich service station owners.

Yankees Talk About Trading 'Red' Ruffing

NEW YORK, April 28.—Along with "Bash" Boud' today we hear... That Max Schmeling owes his government two hitches of military service... totalling at least eight weeks... from which he was excused for propaganda purposes.

And that Max is a lieutenant in the newly organized German army...advices from abroad say he may be made a captain...and that if he should regain the heavyweight title...he's in line for a colonelcy.

Judge Sam Gould, brother of Braddock's manager, Joe Gould... says Federal Judge Guy Fake may hand down his decision in the Braddock-Garden case Friday... If not then, almost surely next week.

Joe DiMaggio will be back in the Yankee lineup by Monday at the latest...perhaps much sooner.

May Trade Ruffing.
The American league's lone and lonely hold-out... Red Ruffing of the Yanks... will be automatically suspended... if he fails to report by April 30... in which case Judge Landis... League Prexy Will Harbridge and the Yanks... would have to okay him for reinstatement.

Baseball men are betting Red will be traded before June 15 in any event...because Owner Jake Ruppert has turned sour on his right hander.

Joe Levy, coast promoter, wants Sixto Escobar to defend his bantam title again against Lou Salica... at Los Angeles June 21... Meanwhile Lou has a date with Pete De Grasse May 11... and may take on Pancho Levhas May 28.

Yanks are shipping Pitcher Steve Sundra to their Newark farm for more seasoning.

Jack (Shot-Putter) Torrance will be unveiled against Abe Simon... another muscle-bound behemoth, here tonight, with Cauliflower Row evenly divided on the probable outcome... This six-rounder is attracting more customers than Arturo Godoy and Tony Galento in the main event... Godoy is 9 to 5 in the morning line... Torrance and Simon are even money.

HERE AND THERE
IN SPORTS' LAND

While experts believe the United States will defeat Japan in the Davis cup zone play at San Francisco, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Don Budge and his American team mates were warned by the non-playing captain, Edward Chandler that they cannot let down a minute if they hope to win the tennis event. He claims that Jiro Yamagishi is good enough to beat any of our entries. His game is sound in every department and it is possible for him to win two singles events, Chandler stated. Fumiteru Nakano is also good and it is within the realm of possibility for him to take one of the singles matches, according to Chandler.

For the second time within a short period an American fighter lost on foreign soil. Kingfish Levinsky having bowed to the Irish thrush, Jack Doyle, in a 12 round bout at Wembley stadium, London, last night. Previously Tommy Farr had handed Max Baer a cuffing in 15 rounds. Jock McAvoy won the British light-heavyweight championship by knocking out Eddie Phillips, the titleholder in the fourteenth round of the semi-final to the Doyle-Levinsky fight.

Max Stein, Belleville, Ill., shattered the American Bowling Congress all-events scoring record yesterday at New York when he posted a score of 2,070, for his nine games in three divisions. He bettered by 10 pins the former record of 2,060, made by Gil Zunker of Milwaukee, in the tournament at Columbus, four years ago.

By Fresh Wave Of Liquidation

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 28.—Stocks tumbled one to more than six points into new low ground for the year today, in a fresh wave of liquidation that sent the ticker four minutes behind for a time.

Pressure was heavy from the opening gong, as Wall street was unnerved by President Roosevelt's new attack on monopoly and price rises, and a tacit warning to the public to refrain from stock speculation.

Support was met at the end of the first hour as trading slowed down momentarily, but about noon the bear drive began anew and earlier losses were extended all along the line.

Pivotal groups, including steels, rails, motors, metals, utilities, aviation, amusements and the blue chip industrial, bore the brunt of the heavy selling. A long list of individual issues dropped into new low ground for the year.

Bonds also were weak, although governments held in an irregular, quiet trend. Wheat lost more than 1 cent a bushel and cotton about $1 a bale.

Facing Charges Before Justice As Result

ELLWOOD CITY, April 28.—Ellwood City police officers were called to the New Castle road in the vicinity of Duck Run, on Tuesday afternoon, by reports of some trouble.

As a result of the visit, George Botcher, 51, was brought to the Ellwood City hospital for treatment and Stefan Kramer, 51, was brought to the police station, the officers report.

A charge of assault and battery and a surety of the peace has been preferred against Kramer and he is under bail for a hearing.

Botcher is reported as suffering from a number of broken ribs.

From what the police have learned, the trouble developed from a dispute over a road leading to their properties.

Madrid itself remained a city of terror today, where few ventured on the streets for fear of a repetition of the almost daily bombardments which have been steadily adding to the death toll.

From 20 to 50 were killed in Tuesday's shelling, bringing the list in the present series of artillery attacks, lasting a fortnight, to about 350.

RIVERS DROP STEADILY IN

ruly rivers and mountain streams in the vast Western Pennsylvania watershed today began to recede. At Pittsburgh, scene of the disastrous St. Patrick's Day flood of last year, the river at the "Point," where the Allegheny and Monongahela meet to form the Ohio, reached a high of 35.1 feet, more than 10 feet above the official danger stage, and then began dropping steadily, at the rate of three-tenths foot an hour.

Prepared by earlier visits of its turbulent rivers, Pittsburgh merchants in the city's famed "golden triangle" were prepared for the new emergency and escaped with comparatively little damage. Muddy streets along the river here and a few pumps emptying cellars of water remained, however, as a grim warning of what might have been another serious disaster for the city.

The Stonycreek river at Johnstown the "flood city" continued to fall despite steady rains which continued to fall during the night. Robert Tross, U. S. weather observer, however, said there was no immediate danger of another rise unless exceptionally heavy rains fell tonight in the upper reaches of the Conemaugh basin.

The break was one of the worst the company had experienced, and employees of the company worked feverishly to complete repairs.

It was necessary to close the George Washington school, Supt. B. K. Thacker stated, as there was no water with which to wash the dishes in the cafeteria for the pupils who eat on the second turn, and there was also a scarcity of water to operate the boilers in the heating plant.

Pennsylvania Has Much Salt

Huge Beds Of Rock Salt
Found Below Earth's Surface

WOULD SUPPLY
WORLD FOR YEARS

HARRISBURG, April 28.—Secretary of internal affairs Thomas A. Logue, today said there is enough rock salt deep beneath the surface of Pennsylvania to supply the world for many years.

Since 1928 deep drilling for oil and gas has disclosed beds of rock salt several thousand feet below the surface in Elk, Erie, Potter, Tioga and Warren counties. Search of the records of the Bureau of Topographic and Geologic Survey in the Department of Internal Affairs shows that similar discoveries were made in Forest and McKean counties more than 20 years ago, and salt was found in deep wells in Crawford county in 1916 in Washington county in 1917.

Although the salt is in beds from five to 94 feet thick, no use is made of it because it lies from 3,200 to 7,000 feet beneath the surface. It occurs in the same geologic formation as the salt beds in New York, Ohio and Michigan, where they are much nearer the surface, so Pennsylvania is under no necessity of mining salt at a high cost.

The salt beds presumably underlie that part of the state west of the Allegheny Front at Altoona and Lock Haven, and the northern tier of counties, an area of more than 20,000 square miles. Definite evidence is at hand of its presence under nine counties whose aggregate area is 8,013 square miles. Deep wells pierced 71 feet of salt in Erie county, 87 feet in McKean county, 15 feet in Potter county, 145 feet in Tioga county, and 60 feet in Washington county.

Just to illustrate the quantity of salt involved, the following figures may be used: One cubic foot of rock salt weighs about 136 pounds. One square mile equals 27,873,400 square feet. Therefore a layer of salt one foot thick over one square mile would weigh 1,895,731 short tons; a 10-foot bed would contain about 18,950,000 tons, and a county like Potter or McKean having an area of 1,000 square miles would have about 19 billion tons of salt under it in one 10-foot bed. Should this figure be multiplied by the 8,000 square miles in the nine counties known to be underlain by salt, or by any greater thickness than 10 feet, the quantity is so great as to be inconceivable to the ordinary mind. The quantity of salt in a 10-foot bed under one county of 1,000 square miles would be equivalent to 2,700 times the quantity produced in the United States in a single year, or to a block of salt 1 mile square and 10,000 feet high.

In other words there is enough rock salt under any one of several counties to supply the world's demand for many years.

Clowns Feature Of Coming Circus

Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus
Well Equipped With Laugh Producers

MAKEUP AND DRESS
PROVES BIG HELP

The famous "laugh factory" of the great Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus is comprised of more than two score of fun-makers who frequently spend many months of serious study and rehearsal in the invention of tricks and absurdities which require only a few moments in actual presentation.

Experience has taught them that while circus audiences in certain sections of the country will respond to certain antics, the thing to search for is the elusive "universal laugh-getter"—and the never-failing clown "gag" which will send crowds into gales of laughter whether the circus be exhibiting in Maine or California; New York or Mississippi.

Sometimes the effect of circus clowning is enhanced greatly by costuming and by facial makeup. Close observation will disclose the fact that no two clowns ever look exactly alike. Once a clown has perfected a makeup, none of his colleagues will duplicate it and he is granted a sort of moral copyright on his achievement.

The versatility of circus buffoons often goes unappreciated, but the fact remains that many a clown discovers he must be a musician, a dancer and an acrobat as well as a comedian in order to compete with the best of his associates. Each of the "doctors of mirthology" in the Hagenbeck-Wallace organization is a master of his craft and large portions of laughter are guaranteed when the big show serves up its feast of wonders in New Castle on Friday, May 7.

There will be performances at 2 and 8 p. m. Doors will be open an hour earlier in each instance to permit leisurely inspection of the largest circus wild animal menagerie in the world.

There will also be a street parade at 11 a. m. circus day.

School Safety Probe Started

Local School Officials Asked To Conduct Systematic Investigation

HARRISBURG, April 28.—Dr. Lester K. Ade announced today that the Department of Public Instruction has issued an official communication urging local school officials in all of Pennsylvania's communities to conduct systematic investigations of school premises for the purpose of discovering and eliminating every possible hazard to the health and safety of the pupils and teachers.

The recent calamity in Texas which destroyed the lives of some 450 school children has brought into clear light the importance of the element of safety in the commonwealth and nation, and for that reason, the department in its communication to school districts proposed a number of questions dealing directly with fire hazards. Some of these questions are:

Is your school building considered fire resistive by your insurance company? If not fire resistive, is your school considered safe? Do all school doors open outward? Are oil, gasoline, cellulose films or other such materials kept out of the building or in fireproof closets? Is the room housing the heating plant and basement made fire resistive on all sides and ceiling? Is there adequate fire-alarm provision? Are fire escapes adequate to empty a floor in two minutes without crowding? Is fire drill conducted at least once a month?

Alleged Embezzler Held At Seattle

Barberton, O., Banker Missing
Six Years Has Finally Been Caught

(International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore., April 28.—A six-year search for Peter Westyanek Jr., wanted in connection with embezzlement of $32,651 from the First City Savings bank at Barberton, Ohio, was ended Tuesday with his arrest in Seattle, according to C. C. Spear, special agent in charge of the federal bureau of investigation here.

Westyanek was picked up by two officers in Seattle Friday on a drunk charge. He gave an assumed name, Spears said. His identity was revealed when Seattle police checked his description and finger prints with a department of justice identification notice issued for Westyanek in May 1936.

Westyanek was charged with embezzlement in federal court at Cleveland under the national banking act following his disappearance in the fall of 1931. Federal authorities revealed funds were taken from the Barberton bank here between Oct. 2 and 22, 1931, Spears said.

The prisoner was being held for removal to Ohio.

AROUND CITY HALL

New Castle is not unlike other cities, traffic at times being a bummer. Not long ago Meadville and Sharon installed a parkometer system. The systems are yet in operation. When this city finally improves a street which the Pennsylvania Power company plans to give the city on the Rosena site the thoroughfare probably will be paved with concrete and carry heavy traffic which will be detoured from Washington street.

Dr. William L. Steen, city health officer, accompanied by Sanitary Policeman Chauncey Davis, have been taking inspection trips to different sections of the city to study conditions in different beer emporiums.

The health officer said recently that unless sanitary conditions were complied with, he will report offenders to the State Liquor Control board. All beer emporiums are supposed to have certain laboratory requirements. They are also supposed to wash their glasses, in such a way that disease cannot spread.

City Treasurer C. C. McKibben stated today that the 1937 city tax payment on the two mills, Shenango and New Castle works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company has been paid. The tax the company turned in to the city treasurer amounted to about $32,000. It is anticipated that other industries will pay their 1937 city taxes this month.

All unpaid school taxes for 1936 which have not been paid by May 1, will be filed, it was reported today by city treasury attaches. They said they were not in a position, at this time, to name the amount delinquent.
